Krishi Vigyan Kendras (KVKs), established under the Ministry of Agriculture & Farmers Welfare, Government of India, serve as a vital institutional mechanism for the transfer of agricultural technologies to farmers. KVKs play a significant role in capacity building for agri-entrepreneurship and in the validation of technologies developed by agricultural research institutions.

The employees of Krishi Vigyan Kendras, function as frontline extension and technology transfer agents at the district level in India. They work in close coordination with local communities and development departments to ensure that the latest agricultural knowledge and innovations effectively reach to the grassroot level.

In pursuance of its outreach/extension mandate, SKUAST-K invites online applications from young motivated individuals, domiciles of the Union Territory of Jammu & Kashmir for filling up various posts through direct recruitment in different Krishi Vigyan Kendras (KVKs) of the University through University website www.skuastkashmir.ac.in
